LOCAL BUYERS LEFT IN LURCH?

Suit For Receiver of Automobile Insurance Company is Filed and Restraining Order Asked.

MUCH STOCK WAS SOLD HERE

Plaintiff Declares That Stockholders Are Duped in Transfer to Federal Union Surety Company.

A receivership suit, filed in Indianapolis yesterday afternoon, is of considerable interest to local people since, many persons here bought stock in the Automobile Insurance Company of America, for which a receivership was asked. The suit was brought at this time and a temporary restraining order granted because at a recent meeting of the stockholders, it was decided to sell all of the stock to the Federal Surety Company. The man who asks for a receiver alleges that every stockholder in the Automobile Insurance Company of America is getting in return only $35 for every $100 invested or in other words that they are being duped out of $65 on each hundred.

Local stockholders in the company are well aware of the actions of the company in the past few weeks and have watched every step in the proceedings with interest. They have been attempting to figure out why the transfer of stock to the Federal Union Surety Company is a judicious move and a benefit to the people who have invested their money in the concern.

E. B. Thomas of the People's Loan and Trust Company, who is secretary of the Automobile Insurance Company, but who has not been actively engaged in the work, believes that the transfer was to the best interests of the stockholders. He says that a portion of the money paid in for stock would have been used up for organization expenses had the insurance company been continued, and that the stockholders will be in much better condition with stock in a good concern like the Union Federal Surety Company, which has been operating for a considerable length of time.

He says that the man who brought suit yesterday, was present the day that the meeting of the stockholders was held and it was decided to sell out to the proposition. On that day he was elected vice-president of the company. It is believed that he has brought the receivership suit to escape paying notes which he gave for a certain amount of the stock which he purchased.

The Indianapolis Star says of the suit which was filed:

A receivership for the Automobile Insurance Company of America, an Indiana corporation of which Senator Reed Smoot of Utah is a director, was asked yesterday by Orion S. Miller of St. Louis, who alleges he has paid $28,750 and given promissory notes for $21,250 for 2,500 shares of the capital stock of the company, and that the directors are now about to transfer all notes and assets of the insurance company to the Federal Surety Company, also an Indiana corporation.

The suit was filed in Superior court, Room 2. Besides a receiver, Miller asks a restraining order to prevent the transfer of the property. Judge Collier granted a temporary restraining order and will hear the evidence in the case Saturday.

The defendants to the suit are the Automobile Insurance Company of America, David M. Parry, William P. Bidgood, T. C. Search, Joseph D. Cotton and Reed Smoot, directors; Edgar E. Hendee, selling agent;

Charles W. Clark of Charles W. Clark & Co., fiscal agent, and the Federal Surety Company.

Miller says the insurance company was incorporated October 27, 1909, with an authorized capital stock of $1,000,000 divided into shares of par value of $10 each. It was planned and partially carried out to sell each share of stock at $20, using the amount received over and above par as a working surplus. Miller says he first paid $20 a share for 250 shares, paying $45,000 in cash and notes. He alleges that other purchasers of stock paid in cash and by notes a total of about $192,000 into the company's treasury.

October 18, 1910, when no more stock could be sold and it was found impossible to raise the necessary sum of $300,000 before the company could transact business as an insurance company, it is alleged that the board of directors decided to sell the assets of the company to the Federal Union Surety Company, and that a contract of sale was made out.

Miller says that by this contract it was planned to transfer to the Federal Union Surety Company ten shares of the automobile insurance stock, for which the shareholders had paid at least $200, for one share of Union Surety Company, of a par value of $100, but in reality worth $70, thereby giving the automobile insurance stockholders $35 for every $100 they had invested.

The plaintiff asserts this would entail a loss of $22,500 to him, and over $100,000 to other stockholders. He not only asks a receiver and restraining order to prevent the carrying out of the transfer of the property to the Federal Surety Company, but also asks that the subscriptions be made for capital stock, and the notes he gave therefor be canceled and declared void. He asks a judgment of $75,000 against the automobile insurance company and Charles W. Clark & Co.

ARREST CROOK IN NEW CASTLE

Man With Aliases Will be Returned Here For "Jumping" Hotel Bill at Scanlan House.

A REPORTER "TIPPED" IT OFF

Finally Admits to New Castle Police That he is Wanted in Peru, Ill.

Arthur L. Younger, alias A. L. Sayner, alias C. B. Archer, who left here yesterday morning without paying his hotel bill at the Scanlan House, and who is said to be wanted in Peru, Ill., for obtaining money under false pretenses, was arrested by the New Castle police this morning on suspicion and on information supplied by an article in the Daily Republican yesterday. The local police were notified this afternoon that he had been arrested, Miss Mary Scanlan swore out an affidavit for his arrest and City Marshal Jesse Harlow will go to New Castle this evening to return the prisoner here.

The article in the Daily Republican was largely responsible for the crook's arrest this morning. A New Castle Courier reporter read it this morning, tipped it off to the police and in a very short time they had arrested Younger at the Bundy hotel, as he answered the description given in the Republican. He had fifteen cents in his pocket when arrested.

At first the natty looking gentleman denied all of the charges that the New Castle police made. Finally he admitted that he had "jumped" a board bill here, but said that he was not wanted in Peru, Ill. Later he admitted that he was guilty of crooked work in Peru, Ill., and the New Castle police wired there for particulars. He registered in New Castle as C. B. Archer, Scranton, Pa.

WANT RECEIVER FOR JOHN JONES

Young Smythe Field Company Brings Receivership Suit Against Local Dry Goods Man For $350.

ALLEGHE HE IS INSOLVENT

Claim That Chattel Mortgage, Filed by Brother, Will be Foreclosed to Injury of Creditors.

The Young Smythe Field Company, a corporation, filed suit in the circuit court this afternoon against John A. Jones, a dry goods merchant of East Second street, on an account and demanding a receiver. The plaintiffs set forth in the complaint that a receiver should be appointed to protect the creditors of Mr. Jones as one Thomas A. Jones has filed suit to foreclose a chattel mortgage for $6,000, which is more than all of Mr. Jones' possessions are worth. It is alleged that his combined stock of dry goods, notions, furniture and fixtures are not worth more than $3,500.

The plaintiff avers that John A. Jones is indebted to them $325.54 for goods, sold and delivered to them at the request of the defendant and that the sum is now due and unpaid and that there has been a long and unreasonable delay so that the plaintiffs should have interest which would make the total $350.

The plaintiffs further declare that the defendant, besides the debt to them, owes money to numerous other firms, persons and corporations, which he is unable to pay. They aver that he is insolvent and that he has neither money, assets nor means with which to meet his existing indebtedness. They allege that he is indebted to diverse persons and firms in the sum of $6,000; that he is unable to meet his obligations; that numerous suits have been filed against him, which are now pending, in the last three months; that on the thirteenth day of this month, Thomas A. Jones, a brother of the defendant, filed an action against John A. Jones, asking for a chattel mortgage, executed in 1907 upon the property of the defendant now situated in the store. It is said in the complaint that the mortgage is purported to cover the stock and fixtures, then in the store, and that Thomas A. Jones, plaintiff in the said action, is now claiming that the mortgage covers the stock, furniture and fixtures in the store. The plaintiffs aver that the mortgage does not cover the stock in the store and that the mortgage as to the stock is wholly void and inoperative.

The plaintiffs further aver that the mortgage purports to secure Thomas A. Jones upon certain promissory notes, executed for John A. Jones and that Thomas A. Jones in action filed in the court alleges and claims that said mortgage does not secure him, while the Young Smythe Field Company declares that the mortgage does not secure Thomas A. Jones upon promissory notes, but is wholly inoperative and void.

The plaintiffs aver that the defendant will, unless a receiver is appointed, appear and permit his brother, Thomas A. Jones, to foreclose the mortgage to the injury of the Young Smythe Field Company and other creditors of John A. Jones. They also claim that the defendant will use money on hands now to pay certain creditors by way of preference which will be acts of insolvency and illegal. Megee and Kiplinger and Samuel L. Trabue are attorneys for the plaintiffs in the suit filed today.

WOULD NEVER FINE HIM

John Demmer Will be Treated Right in Police Court.

John Demmer believes that he will be given grace if he ever comes up in police court in Indianapolis, because one of his large and beautiful calendars, advertising Demmer's Bond, now graces the wall in the city building in Indianapolis. Mr. Demmer is just now distributing some very artistic calendars and he placed one in an Indianapolis house. The next morning, he received a letter from an Indianapolis policeman, asking for one for the police court. John promptly replied that he would send one, providing the judge would remember him, if he should ever suffer the misfortune to come before him.

FIRE DESTROYS SPICELAND HOME

Residence of Joseph H. Hall Burned to Ground at Heavy Loss of $1500.

ORIGIN IS STILL A MYSTERY

The residence of Joseph S. Hall, on Main street, in Spiceland, was completely destroyed by fire, the origin of which is not known, at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, says the New Castle Times.

The family was aroused and with the assistance of neighbors, succeeded in removing all of the furniture from the house, but the dwelling itself was entirely destroyed. The loss will reach about $1500, on which there is $500 insurance.

Mr. Hall is employed at the auto factory in New Castle, but resides with his family in Spiceland. Their furniture was moved into a house owned by Joseph Griffin, where the Halls will live.

ERROR IN BID.

I & CANSWERS IN LENGTHY BRIEF

Local Traction Line Replies to Recommendations of Railroad Commission.

COVERS EACH YEAR OF ITS LIFE

Shown in Answer That Only One Passenger Has Been Killed in Seven Years.

At the meeting of the Governor, Indiana Railroad Commission and representatives of Indiana interurban lines in the State House in Indianapolis Tuesday afternoon the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction company was represented by Charles L. Henry, president of the road. The conference was called by Governor Marshall to bring about a condition of affairs such that traction wrecks might be averted in the future. The meeting was a very peaceable one, ending very harmoniously.

Representatives of the four roads to which recommendations were addressed by the Railroad Commission, following the investigation of the four wrecks, had prepared written replies to the recommendations. Arthur W. Brady, president of the I. U. T., and Charles L. Henry, president of the I. & C., quoted freely from these briefs during the discussion. The briefs presented by Mr. Brady of the I. U. T., Mr. Henry of the I. & C., Mr. Todd of the T. H. I. & E., and Charles D. Emmons and James M. Barrett of the Ft. W. & W. V., practically were the same.

The answer of the I. & C. is a very exhaustive one and covers the seven years that the line has been operating. It shows that there has been only one fatality in that length of time and that the road has been unusually successful. It is contended in the brief that the recent accident near Connersville could not have been averted by the Railroad Commission.

The answer of the local traction line to the recommendations of the Commission is as follows:

Indianapolis, Indiana, December 10, 1910.

To the Railroad Commission of Indiana: Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company submits the following response to the recommendations contained in your report to Charles L. Henry as Receiver while he was operating the properties now owned by this company, dated November 14, 1910, in relation to the accident west of Connersville, on October 13th, 1910.

This company by way of preface calls your attention to the fact that among the 8,076,635 passengers carried by it and its predecessors in operation of the properties during the period from October 1, 1903, when The Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company first acquired the Shelbyville line, down to and including October 31, 1910, a period of seven years, only one fatality occurred. Therefore this death of an interurban passenger of the company shows for the period stated an average of one to 8,076,635.

During the period from 1900 to 1908 (the latter year being the latest for which the figures are accessible in the annual reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission) the average fatalities among passengers transported by carriers reporting to that Commission varied annually from a maximum of one death to 1,375,856 passengers in 1905 to a minimum of one death to 2,335,983 passengers in 1908, or an average for the period of one death to every 1,375,856 passengers.

OPEN LAMP CAUSES DISASTER IN MINE

More Than a Score Killed By Explosion In Virginia.

Bluefields, W. Va., Dec. 15.—By an explosion in the Greeno mine at Tacoma, Va., twenty-two men were killed and twenty-six entombed. Relief parties with oxygen helmets and surgeons' supplies were rushed to the scene under direction of Dr. J. A. Holmes, director of the bureau of mines at Washington. The explosion is said to have been caused by an accumulation of gas in the lower levels, being set fire to by an open lamp belonging to one of the miners, but this cannot be confirmed.

Fire broke out in the mine following the first explosion, and frantic efforts were made to get some aid to the imprisoned men. The draft fans at the entrance were shattered by the explosion, so great was the force.

Immediately after the explosion Superintendent Barrowman with three mine bosses started down the shaft as a rescue party. Upon reaching the bottom they signalled for the stop and have not been heard from since. It is thought they died in the mine.

So far ten bodies have been recovered and one man barely alive was taken out, but he is not expected to live.

THEY MEANT BUSINESS

Aggrieved Wife and Daughter Demolish a "Blind Tiger."

Sullivan, Ind., Dec. 15.—Because her husband came home intoxicated and made trouble in the household, Mrs. Baldy Stewart and her daughter, of Farnsworth, a mining town three miles east of here, armed themselves with clubs, marched on the alleged source of the husband's liquor, and smashed the blind tiger and all it contained into smithereens.

The men in the place fled in haste when the women entered and unceremoniously started on their work of destruction. Bottles were smashed and their contents ran in streams over the floor. Every bit of glassware in the resort was broken into fragments, according to the report received here, and when the women withdrew finally from the field the place of business, once flourishing, was hardly recognizable.

Willing to Let It Drop.

Mexico City, Dec. 15.—Congressman Diaz Miron will probably not be tried by a committee of his colleagues for shooting at Congressman Chapital a few days ago. ### BUSY CRACKSMEN

Within a Week One Indiana County Suffers Three Visitations.

Cambridge City, Ind., Dec. 15.—The third safe blowing in Wayne county within a week has occurred here. The burglars entered the drug store of Dr. W. A. Johnson in Main street, wrecked the safe with nitroglycerine and got away with $20 in silver. Either the explosive used set fire to the store or the burglars themselves added arson to their crime, for the building was badly damaged by fire and the stock of goods is a partial loss. Prompt work by the fire department saved the town from a disastrous fire. The fact that the safe had been blown was not discovered until the firemen were at work.

Children Fatally Dosed.
Indianapolis, Dec. 15.—Johnnie F. Staley, six years old, is dead, and his brother Chester, four years old, is in a critical condition at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Staley, as the result, it is said, of an overdose of atropine sulphate from a prescription prepared for them by Dr. Walter L. Haworth, an interne assigned to duty as ambulance surgeon at the city dispensary, and given to them by their mother.

They Left in a Hurry.
Huntington, Ind., Dec. 15.—Twenty-four sticks of dynamite were laid around a stove of the Markle Lime and Stone company to be heated preparatory to the evening blasts. The stove became red hot and set the little shack on fire. The workmen saw the flames sweeping toward the dynamite and hiked for tall timber. The explosion wiped the shack and stove from the face of the earth. No one was hurt.

Another Car of Winter Vestibule Closed Buggies

The Greatest Comfort for the Traveling Public Ever Invented Up to the Present Time

No man with a family can afford to be without one of these Buggies. This is the best remedy for health that man ever invented, up to this time, 1910. This is the finest finished car in the world today, and THIS IS NO LIE. It is finished like a Palace Car. It is trimmed up-to-date, has curtains at the windows. Pull down the blinds and let the light shine in. For goodness sake buy one. Don't freeze your poor wife this winter.

LET ME HEAR FROM YOU

ELECTION DAY RIOTS CAUSE INDICTMENTS

No End of Uneasiness Being Manifested at Gary.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 15.—Pedro Bastovich, a detective, was arrested at the police station by deputy sheriffs following his indictment by the grand jury at Crown Point, and is lodged in the Crown Point jail, as he was unable to obtain the necessary bail, amounting to $4,000.

An indictment has also been returned against Mike Yoconovich, formerly of Chicago, otherwise known as "Dog Face Charley," whose career as a local policeman was stormy. "Dog Face," who is out on bond for attempting to kill Sheriff Grant, is now being sought by the deputies on charges contained in the indictment. The nature of the indictment, however, has not been disclosed.

True bills against persons involved in the election day riots are expected to be returned, and as a result there is considerable uneasiness here. Ole Olson, a policeman, and Bill Frazier are in jail, the former being arrested in connection with election day sluggings.

They Have Had Enough of Him.

Havana, Dec. 15.—General Pino Guerro, who has almost entirely recovered from the effects of the wound he sustained from an assassin, has lately been confined to the limits of Camp Columbia by a presidential order in consequence of the riding in an auto around the palace, accompanied by a number of armed officers, without stopping to send in his card to President Gomez. It is said that Guerro will be sent on a foreign mission so as to get rid of him, and that General Riva, his rival, will succeed him as commander-in-chief of the army.

To Reduce Meat Prices.

Rome, Dec. 15.—Acting on the initiative of Mayor Nathan, the municipality of Rome is negotiating with Chicago packers for the importation of 6,000 tons of Argentine meat early in 1911. The object of the movement is to compel the lowering of the present high prices of fresh beef.

Out in Missouri, it has been decided that a girl can not jilt a man a few days after she has accepted him and keep his presents. Right idea exactly—no taxation without representation.

RED CROSS SEALS ARE WORK OF ART

Hundreds of Talented Artists Try For $100 Prize Offered Each Year For New Design.

ARE SELLING NICELY HERE

The sale of the Red Cross Christmas seals is progressing nicely in this city. The Tri Kappas are working hard to equal the record established last year. A few days before Christmas, several members of the sorority will be found in the post-office selling the seals to the public. In this manner they hope to dispose of a large quantity of the seals.

While the people of Indiana are buying thousands of Red Cross Christmas seals, with which to adorn their holiday letters and parcels, as well as to help increase the Red Cross white plague fund, hundreds of talented artists over the country are giving thought to designs for the Christmas seal that is to be used in 1911. The American Red Cross, since the Christmas seals were first offered, gives annually a prize of $100 for the best design. In 1908 the accepted design was from Howard Pyle, a well known magazine illustrator. In the contest this year 1800 designs were submitted by hundreds of artists, both men and women, and the winner was Mrs. Guion Thompson of Waterbury, Conn.

When the contest has closed, the Red Cross makes a very extensive exhibit of the designs in the Coreor-an Art Gallery, one of the great art museums of the country, at Washington, D. C., and many people go to see the elaborate display. The prize is awarded by a committee of artists of highest standing and the design accepted by them becomes the official seal of the Red Cross. The competition for this prize is open to all artists, and amateur designers are especially interested in it. That the public may have fresh interest in this movement, the designs are changed every year. At the close of each holiday seal season, the unsold seals are gathered up by State agents and sent to headquarters at Washington where they are burned.

AMUSEMENTS

The Vaudeet offers the usual double program tonight in two reels of pictures. The first is an Imp drama, entitled "Dixie." As the title implies, it is a southern story. The second picture is a Bison film, "A Romance of the Prairie." This is a great western picture, full of sensational situations. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Star Grand offers an Atlas drama tonight entitled "The King of Beggars." It shows how a man and his family are living in luxury off of the money received on the streets by a band of beggars. The raid by the police on the beggars' den, the escape of their king, later the arrest of the king, but too late, as the shock kills him. Earl Robertson will repeat the song he sang last night entitled "Stop Your Blushing Rosie."

The Palace will have a Selig film for tonight entitled "Blasted Hopes." The picture tells the story of a country lassie who is in love with a man from the city. He throws her down and marries another. A new illustrated song will be sung.

SOCIETY NEWS

A dance will be given in the Modern Woodmen hall, Milroy, Friday evening, December 23. Erdman's orchestra will furnish the music.

The Shakespeare Club will meet Friday evening at the home of Miss Nora Sleeth, 131 West First street. The subject for study is "As You Like It," led by Miss Jeanne Bishop, assisted by Miss Anna O. Marlatt.

Mrs. R. H. Earnest of near Morristown received 437 post cards and several valuable presents Monday, the occasion being her birthday. A few days ago Mrs. Earnest had a birthday card shower on her husband at which time he received 140 cards.

J. Walter Elliott and Miss Helen Walker, prominent residents of Shelbyville, were married in Jacksonville, Florida, on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. Mr. Elliott was for some time editor and business manager of the Shelbyville Republican and is well to do.

Mrs. Sam Innis entertained the J. J. club yesterday afternoon. Visitors besides the club were present. When the guests were asked to the dining room, they found on the table lunch baskets for each with name cards and well filled with good things, a tin cup and spoon. It was a great surprise for the guests and was surely enjoyed.

Coroner Allen of Hancock county was Tuesday night hurriedly called to Mooresville by an excited man who claimed to have found the dead body of an infant, wrapped in a new coat and stuffed away in the furnace of a sugar camp in J. M. Binford's woods. The coat and the body were dragged from the furnace and found to be the carcass of a chicken, minus head, feathers and feet.

INITIATE A LOCAL MAN

Bert Walton Becomes an Elk in the Connerville Chapter.

The Elks initiated three of the uninitiated into the mysteries of their order Tuesday night, says the Connerville News. The three were Bert Walton of Rushville, J. W. Brockman of Brookville, and ex-Judge R. L. Head, also of Brookville. The attendance was unusually large and the degree staff performed its work faultlessly. After the solemn initiatory rites ex-Judge Head gave a brief but very eloquent and very appropriate address. A delicious luncheon and a thorough pleasant social time followed.

fact question. "You say a searching party has set out from the yacht? Have they been long ashore?"

"They set out only a little after sunrise. We came into the bay with the last of yesterday's twilight, and the sight of those huts, at the edge of the shore—her voice faltered a little, "nearly made us hope that the impossible might prove true. We fired our signal cannon two or three times and then sent up some rockets, without getting any answer. It was too late to go ashore in the dark; so we had to wait a few hours for another sunrise. The few of us who were left on the yacht expected them back today before dark fell. But I suppose there's nothing to worry about in their not coming. They went equipped to pass a night ashore, if necessary. You don't advise me to begin worrying about them, do you?"

He did not answer her question. He was recalling something which his amazing meeting with the girl out here on the ice-floe had, for a little while, put quite out of his mind—the weird, silent tragedy he had seen enacted a few hours before upon the glacier behind the headland. The victim, the man in the leather coat, must have been one of the party from the yacht; but it was impossible that the little band of his murderers could be. No one freshly landed from the yacht would have been dressed as they were, or would have been armed with darts.

With no better look at them than had been possible to him as he hung above their heads, he had been convinced that they were white; certainly, the leather-coated man had been talking to them, freely enough, in English. And yet, if white, they must have been refugees—survivors, if not of Captain Fielding's ill-fated expedition, then of some other, tragic, unreported ship wreck.

But if they were white men—refugees, why had they fled from their hut at sight of the yacht which came bringing a rescue? Why had they driven that one luckless member of the rescuing party who fell in with them, into that carefully prepared ambush, and then murdered him, silently? Even Eskimos would not have done a thing like that.

His long silence had alarmed the girl, and presently, perceiving that this was so, he drew himself up with an affected start. "I beg your pardon. I drifted off, thinking of something else. Living in the sky doesn't seem conducive to good manners. No, I don't believe there is anything to worry about. Any way, as soon as light comes back, which won't be long now, I can set at rest any fears you may have. I'll go and find your party, and I'll search the land, too—for anything else that may be there. And then I'll bring you word."

"You are very good," she said with a little hesitation, "but I can't let you—"

He interrupted her with a laugh. "It's nothing difficult that I am proposing to do for you, you know."

"That's true. I had forgotten your wings. The rocks, the ice, the steep places, that mean so tragically much to them, are nothing at all to you. But what are you doing now? Even you can't find them in the dark."

He had already begun unstrapping the bundle he had made of his wings, and seemed to be preparing for immediate flight. That was what caused her question.

"No," he said; "I shall wait for sunrise."

"But why not here, on the yacht? We can give you a comfortable bed there; better, certainly, than that sleeping bag of yours."

"I am afraid," he said, "that what you call a comfortable bed in a yacht's cabin would be the surest instrument that could be found for keeping me awake all night. No, I shall find a sheltered hollow up at the top of that headland yonder, where I shall sleep deeply enough, you may be sure."

She watched him, silently, while he slipped the steel-jointed rods into place, drew the catgut bow strings taut, until they sang—until the fabric of his planes shimmered in the starlight—quivered, as if they were instinct with a life of their own.

A sense of the unreality of it all came welling up strongly within her, and a touch of an almost forgotten fear of him.

"Good night," she said, holding out her hand—"goodby."

"Till morning," he answered.

A little breeze came blowing across the ice just then. He dropped her hand quickly, slipped his arms into their places in the frame, mounted the ledge of ice, and then, with a short run, sprang forward into the breeze.

She saw his planes bend a little, undulate, rather, with a sort of sculling motion, as he flew forward, not far above the level of her head. He dipped down again as soon as he had open water beneath him, and almost skimmed the surface of it. Then, gathering speed, he began mounting.

She felt curiously alone now that he was gone; and a little frightened, like a child just waking out of a dream. And she blew a small silver whistle that hung about her neck, for a signal to the men on the yacht to send a boat for her.

Then, while she waited, she dropped down rather limply on her pile of bear-skins. Her hand found something hard that had not been there before, and taking it up she found that it was a curious blunt stick of wood, rudely whittled, and about ten inches long. It must have fallen from his belt while he sat there talking to her. She wondered what he used it for.

CHAPTER III.

The Murderers.

Two men clad in bear-skins were shuffling rapidly along across the glacier. Dawn was already flooding the arctic sky with its amazing riot of color—rose, green-gold, violet, and the ice beneath their feet was rose color with misty blue shadows in it.

The foremost of the two wayfarers was a man of gigantic stature, six and a half feet tall and of enormous girth of chest; yet, somehow, despite his size and the ungainly clothes he wore, he contrived to preserve an air almost of lightness; of lean, compact athleticism, certainly. A stranger, meeting him anywhere and contemplating his formidable proportions, and then looking up past his great, blunt jaw into his cold, light blue, cholerick eyes, would be likely to shiver a little and then get out of his way as soon as possible.

He was walking steadily, glancing neither to the right nor the left. Even over the treacherous, summer-glazed surface of the glacier, his great stride carried him along at a pace which his companion found it difficult to keep up with. Besides, this companion made his task the harder by allowing his eyes to wander from the track they were following, and casting little furtive, anxious glances at the man beside him. In any other company he would have been a rather striking figure himself, well above middle height, powerfully made, and with a face that had lines of experience and determination engraved in it. But the companion dwarfed him.

He seemed to be trying to make up his mind to speak, and still to find this a difficult thing to do.

At last, with a deprecating cough, he began:

Strode On With Unabated Pace, as Though He Had Not Heard.

"What I can't see is, Roscoe, what you did it for. It was all right to do it if you were figuring out any gain from it. We'll all agree to that. Anything for our common good, that's our motto. But where's the gain in killing just one poor fellow out of a party of 30? He seemed a good kind of chap, too, and friendly spoken. We didn't serve you like that, when you come aboard the Walrus at Cape Nome."

"It would have cost you four men to do it, Planck, and you were short-handed as it was."

"That wasn't why we didn't do it. You was a stranger, and you was in a bad way. There was a mob of men that wanted you mighty bad, and we gave you shelter and carried you off and made you a regular sharin' member of the crew. Of course if we'd had any reason to act contrary, we'd have done so. And that's why it seemed to us—to me, I would say, that you probably had some reason in this case, here. And, well—we'd like to know what it is."

But the man he had addressed as "Roscoe" strode on with unabated pace, as if he had not heard. For any attention he paid to his questioner he might have been alone in that expanse of ice and sky.

Planck accepted the silent rebuff as if it had been only what he had expected, but he sighed regretfully. He had once known, and it was only four years ago, that same swaggering trick of contemptuous authority himself. He had been master, the most tyrannical sort of master, some say, to be found anywhere in the world; the captain of an American whaler. And this very man, at whose heels he was scrambling along over the ice, had been one of his crew; had never approached the quarter-deck where he reigned supreme, without an apologetic hand at his forelock, and had always passed to the leeward side of him up on the deck.

But the Walrus had been destined never to see port again. She lingered too long on the whaling grounds to get back through Behring strait that fall; and failed in the attempt to make McKenzie bay, where other whalers in similar plight put in for the winter. Instead of this friendly harbor, she was caught in the pack and carried, relentlessly, north and westward. The milling pressure of great masses of ice crushed in her stout hull, so that the open water they had been hoping for, became, at once, their deadliest peril. The moment the ice broke away, she would go to the bottom like a plummet.

But still the slow, irresistible drift of the ice-pack carried them north and west into a latitude and longitude which, so far as they knew, no human travelers had ever crossed before. And then in the depth of the arctic night, bereft of hope, and half mutinous, they found a land that never had been charted, and, most marvelous of all, a human welcome. For here on the shore were Captain Fielding and the two other survivors of his ill-fated expedition.

The fate of the explorer's ship had been, it seemed, precisely that of the Walrus. She had been caught in the pack, crushed in it and carried against this coast. Before the coming of spring, and with it the breaking of the ice, Fielding and his men had been able to carry their stores ashore, and of these, the greater part still remained.

SAVED SELF AND DAUGHTER

Mattoon, Ill.—"Will you allow me for the benefit of others who may be in the same condition as I was to make a statement in this paper.

"I was in very poor health for years, was weak, ailing, and all run-down, and had lost in weight until I only weighed ninety pounds. I had been under a physician's care, without any benefit, for so long I was discouraged.

About a year ago I decided to try a tonic called Vinol, concerning which I had heard many favorable reports. I commenced to gain, and increased in weight until I now weigh 127 pounds, am in perfect health—and never felt better in my life.

Then, my daughter who lived in Martinsville, Ind., was an invalid and no encouragement was held out for her recovery. After my experience with Vinol, we went to Martinsville and brought her to Mattoon, as she was helpless. When we got her here I put her on Vinol, with the same good results from its use which I had—she gained in weight, and today she is well and strong and feels better than she ever did in her life."

Mrs. O. M. Watrous. (We guarantee this letter is genuine.)

We have for years recommended Vinol as a grand tonic and body-builder, and every year we gain more and more faith in its wonderful virtues. It is certainly the best and simplest tonic restorative we know of. F. B. Johnson & Co. Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

Indianapolis, Dec. 15.—George Pruitt, colored, wanted in Owensboro, Ky., for the murder of a man named Grouse, was arrested here and will be taken back to Owensboro. Pruitt admitted that he shot and killed Grouse following a quarrel, about three weeks ago. Pruitt said that he and some other men were shooting craps in the rear of a barber shop in Owensboro, and that Grouse objected to the way he rolled the bones. He said that after they had an argument about the matter Grouse tried to draw a knife and Pruitt shot him. His plea is that he shot in self-defense.

I & C ANSWERS IN LENGTHY BRIEF

837,974 passengers carried.

This Company does not claim that these figures bear directly upon the facts of the particular accident involved in your report, but it does claim that such figures conclusively demonstrate the safety in high degree of the methods of operation hitherto employed on the lines now owned by this company. It follows that changes of an important character in such methods should be made or required only on a clear showing that the safety of the traveling public will be enhanced thereby.

The following responses are in the numbered order of your recommendations:

1. (a) Your recommendation that applicants for positions as motormen or conductors should not be employed until their former records have been carefully investigated and all letters of reference and recommendation have been carefully considered conforms to the past and present practice on these roads, which this company will continue to follow.

(b) Your recommendation that no motorman should be hereafter employed unless he has had at least one year's experience in train service embodies the principle that, other things being equal, experience should increase the reliability, qualifications and value of a trainman. Such principle has always been recognized and followed on these roads, and which practice this company will continue. This company will further adopt and follow, so far as may be practicable, your specific recommendation. This company does not believe, however, that the highly important and responsible position of motorman should be filled solely with regard to length of service. Cases have arisen, and are certain to arise again, where one man having an extended experience in train service would be a less competent and reliable motorman than another man of much less experience. For instance, an excellent conductor of long experience might not be as good a motorman as another man of comparatively small experience. In all such cases, where the rule you recommend cannot be followed without the selection of a less competent man and the rejection of another more competent man, this company, being directly charged with the responsibility for the safe carriage of many thousands of passengers each month, cannot undertake to adhere rigidly to the rule referred to.

Your attention is called to the fact that the motorman at fault in the accident herein involved was one of such extended experience that the rule recommended would have no application.

Your attention is also called to the practical impossibility of adhering strictly at all times and under all circumstances to the rule recommended. Interurban companies have no extensive switching yards where employees may obtain actual experience of a certain kind of train service. They have no place where one man may for a long period by watching and helping another trainman obtain experience, as in the case of a fireman on a steam locomotive. In the limited space of modern interurban passenger car are compactly placed a motorman's cab, baggage compartment and ladies' compartment, the functions of which in the case of a steam railroad require an entire train of locomotives and cars. To keep cars where employees cannot be kept at a distance from one another as they can on a steam railroad train, for the purpose of learning the duties of trainmen by observation and the performance of such duties as can be incidentally imposed on him, would be an unwise and unsafe course. Such a man cannot be constantly engaged in work, and when not so engaged would be a source of distraction and interference with other trainmen. A practice so filled with hazard should not be followed; moreover, training and experience obtained in this way would not be valuable.

Interurban companies could not rely with safety, beyond a very limited extent, upon securing for motormen with one year's experience in steam railroad service. The experience of interurban companies varies, but this company has found that by reason of the difference in the two classes of service and the difference in the kinds of equipment handled, steam railroad service sometimes served to disqualify rather than qualify a man for interurban service. From lessons which a steam railroad man has learned much must be unlearned in the interurban service. If, therefore, a rule should be adopted, the practical effect of which was to compel the interurban companies to resort to men having one year's experience in steam railroad service, the actual result would be the employment in many instances of men less efficient than those who might be selected from other fields.

(c) Your recommendation that motormen shall not be required to assist in caring for baggage or express, this company cannot accede to. The duties imposed on motormen in this connection require attention only when the car is at a standstill, and not while the car is in motion. By far the greatest part of all baggage and express handled is taken on or let off at a few stations, at the principal ones of which baggagemen are employed, so that comparatively little attention is required even at these points on the part of the motorman.

The case of the motorman is entirely different from that of the locomotive engineer. Even while his car is in operation the motorman has none of the complicated duties to perform which require the constant attention of the engineer, as, for instance, attention to water and steam gauges, lubrication, coal and water supply, etc. When the car is stopped the motorman has ordinarily no duties to perform with respect to the equipment of the car, while the engineer is required to give his attention to the intricate machinery in his charge at such times as well as others. The difference between the two is that the engineer is responsible at all times for the operation of a moving power plant while in the case of the motorman the power is furnished to his car ready for use from a central power plant operated by skilled experts.

The adoption of the rule recommended would compel this company to impose the entire handling of baggage and express on the conductor alone—a task calling him away from the care of passengers and often beyond his physical ability, requiring the co-operation of both motorman and conductor as now—or to place on each of its trains carrying baggage or express an additional man, whose sole duty would be the handling of these articles. It is obvious that the expense of this last course would prohibit its adoption for the great majority of the cars on which baggage and express are now carried, since on many of these cars on which baggage carried is very small and such baggage is carried entirely for the accommodation of the passengers for whom it is generally important and frequently essential that the baggage be transported on the same car that carried the owner. This would compel the company to confine the carriage of baggage to a small number of cars, to the great inconvenience of the traveling public and in the violation of the Act of March 8th, 1907, as heretofore construed by you.

The Commission will bear in mind that the interurban companies of the State, prior to the passage of the Act referred to, limited the carrying of baggage in all reasonable ways, feeling that with their limited baggage compartments the carriage of baggage was a burden and not a benefit to them. It was only after the Commission had indicated to the interurban companies its views that the Act referred to, which requires the carriage of 150 pounds of free baggage per passenger, with very low rates for excess weight, applied to

Feet Tired—So Tired?

TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof. It's the sure remedy, you know, for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweaty, bad-smelling feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too. "For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pains. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used." A. F. Drentzer, Chicago. TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet. You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct, if you wish, from Walter Lutter Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Hargrove and Mullin, Druggists.

the interurban companies, and had suggested the prosecution of interurban companies for violation of the Act, that the interurban companies changed their practice and adopted the views of the Commission in that respect.

This company would hesitate long before placing a baggageman on its cars unless the amount of baggage to be carried should be such as to engross his time completely from the beginning to the end of his run, so that he could not distract or interfere with the trainmen. An idle employee on an interurban car is a menace to safe operation.

(d) Your recommendation that separate compartments be provided for motormen, this company will comply with. On the cars of these roads the motorman is placed in the large compartment adapted also for the carriage of baggage and express. It is and has been the rule to exclude all passengers therefrom except when absolutely necessary to accommodate passengers on special occasions. This rule we will now modify so that passengers and all other persons except those having duties to perform there will be excluded at all times from such compartment.

(e) Your recommendation that in case of a passenger trailer or other additional passenger car attached to a passenger motor car, a third man shall be employed to work under the direction of the conductor, this company will comply with.

2. Your recommendation that this company proceed to install block signals, this company is ready to comply as soon as a satisfactory signal can be secured at an expense within the financial ability of the company to install and operate. From the conference held with the Commission last week and from your report to one of the interurban companies we understand that the type of signal system now in use on the lines of the Indiana Union Traction Company between Indianapolis and Muncie and between Anderson and Wabash has the approval of the Commission.

We call attention, however, to the fact that at this time a number of signal systems are being presented for consideration and that one or more of these may prove better than any practicable system now in use.

We shall diligently pursue this subject and will be pleased to present, if possible, plans and blue prints to you by the time limited in your recommendations as modified, viz: February 2, 1912.

3. Your recommendation that this company shall enforce the "double order" system of dispatching on its lines, this company is ready to comply with under a rule to be approved by the Commission. We suggest that an early conference be held between the Commission and representatives of the interurban railroad companies to formulate a proper rule so that same may be made effective by January 1st. We understand that the system now in use is what is known by railroad men as the "double order system" but that the Commission by the term means the system which requires both motorman and conductor to read back the order to the dispatcher.

The Commission will recognize the fact that the adoption of this rule is a departure from the method of dispatching which has heretofore been in such successful operation on the lines of this country and approved by the Commission; and no accident has been caused by any failure in the dispatching system used. It is therefore important that in the displacement of the present single order system by the double order system that it be done only under a reasonable and well considered rule.

4. Your recommendation that obstructions to sight at curves where sight is badly obstructed be removed, and that until this be done slow speed signals should be posted at such curves limiting the rate of speed to not more than fifteen miles per hour, this company will comply, but suggests that the better practice would be to limit the speed at such points so as to permit the car to be stopped within half the range of vision of the motorman.

In this connection we call your attention to the fact that this company's policy has been and still is, where possible to remove such obstructions, and this has been done in many instances.

5. Your recommendation that division superintendents and trainmasters, by which we understand is meant those immediately in charge of the trainmen, should not be burdened with other duties than those pertaining to train operation, this company is now complying with.

We call attention, however, to the fact that the roads of this company have but recently passed into its hands through sale under a receivership and that necessarily a re-arrangement of the operation of the road will take place; and in this connection we beg to call the attention of the Commission to the fact that the requirements of the proposed rule cannot be followed out by small companies with a small income. In many instances the superintendent must necessarily have charge not only of the very few car men but also of the road bed, overhead work and all the property of the company. It shall be our policy in the operation of our roads not to burden the man who has the oversight of the trainmen with such duties as will interfere with his giving all the necessary attention to the operation of their cars.

5. Your recommendation that this company shall carefully consider and report to the Commission the expediency of establishing a committee on safety, this company will gladly comply with.

In conclusion, we deem it proper to call your attention to the fact that none of the recommendations made by you, which have been considered, unless in a very remote degree, have any bearing upon the accident under consideration. If all of the recommendations made had been in force at the time they would not have prevented this accident. We have, however, considered them in all their details and made answer thereto, as requested by your Commission, without regard to this, for the reason that we understand your Commission desires rather to make them as general recommendations to be followed by all interurban companies in the operation of their roads, and took this occasion to present them to this road.

All of which is respectfully submitted, this 10th day of December, 1910.

DECISION FAVORS MRS. JOHNSON

Court Refuses to Sign Order to Turn Over Checks as Evidence in Murder Case.

TO PROVE THE HANDWRITING

Since Verdict, it is Believed That the Charge Against Spiceland Woman Will be Dismissed.

Friends of Mrs. Etta L. Johnson of Spiceland are beginning to see light ahead and believe that not many days will pass before the murder charge will be erased from the Henry circuit docket and that chapter of her life will be sealed forever. It will be remembered that Mrs. Johnson is alleged to have assisted in the murder of her husband, George E. Johnson. Another move was made in the case yesterday and the decision of the Henry circuit court was very favorable to Mrs. Johnson, which leads those interested in the case to believe that it will soon be dismissed.

Another chapter was added yesterday afternoon when Judge Edward Jackson, in the Henry circuit court, declined to issue an order, sought by the State's attorneys, to have a Crawfordsville bank turn over to the State certain checks which Mrs. Johnson issued some time ago. The State's attorneys presented the petition at the instance of brothers of George E. Johnson, who is alleged to have been killed by the administering of carbolic acid.

The purpose of obtaining the checks was to compare the handwriting of them with letters in the hands of the State, which are alleged to have been written by Mrs. Johnson to Clarence Porter, a young man of Crawfordsville. The identity of the writer of these letters, alleged to have been Mrs. Johnson, will have an important bearing in the dismissal or prosecution of the charge of murder against the woman.

She was released some time ago on her own recognizance on habeas corpus proceedings, and has since been at her home in Spiceland. The defeat of this move makes the probability stronger that the charge against Mrs. Johnson will be dismissed at this term of court.
